

DEATH TAKES MRS. MARGARET BERGMAN

Mrs. Margaret Bergman, a clerk in the Mokena post office for the past six years, died suddenly in her home on Front St., Mokena, Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 8 at 3:30. Mrs. Bergman complained of not feeling well in the morning and of having a severe pain in her chest. She asked her sons to call a doctor.

Dr. Cummings of the Hedges Clinic, Frankfort, responded to the call and found her trouble to be a heart condition.

Mrs. Bergman was born in Chicago in 1902 and was united in marriage to Joseph Bergman in 1928. In Chicago, they moved to Mokena in 1947, and nine months later Mrs. Bergman died of a heart attack. Before coming to Mokena Mrs. Bergman was a clerk in the internal revenue department, Chicago.

Following her husband's death Mrs. Bergman continued working, and reared her two sons, Donald, 21, who is a student at the Lewis Aeronautical Institute in Lockport, and David, 16, who is employed at the Cooper and Hostert garage in Mokena.

Surviving besides her two sons are three sisters: Mrs. Gertrude Tabsoott and Mrs. Marie Hart of Chicago and Mrs. Helen Merrifield of South Bend, Ind. Also three brothers, William and John, of Chicago, and Joe who is in the service.

The body was removed to the DeV. Funeral home, 214 E. 115th St., Chicago, where services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Dr. Harv Hagar, pastor of the Bethany church in Roseland officiating. Burial will be in Oak Hills.

'Little Bill' Makes Debut In This Area

A new character has arrived in Northern Illinois. His name is Little Bill and if the plans of his creator, Public Service company, work out he will become one of the best known commercial symbols in the area served by the utility.

Little Bill is a cross between a talking bird and a light bulb. The lamp symbolizes electricity and the bird's cry of "cheap, cheap, cheap" has an obvious significance.

Through newspaper advertising, television and radio, and through words and song, Little Bill will become a familiar figure in the area.

Little Bill will have a foil—Bill Bill—who will appear on the same stage on occasion. The big fellow is a pelican whose huge bill contracts with the dainty beak of Little Bill.

Big Bill will represent the high cost of living, while Little Bill will be shown as still working for "pennies a day."

Other items on the program will include the presentation of a new troop charter that by the way, will have a veteran troop charter seal attached; eleven scouts will receive their tenderfoot badges; five scouts will receive their second class badges, and one scout a first class badge, and one scout a first class badge, and one scout a first class badge, and one scout a first class badge.

A movie entitled, "Adventures in Africa" will be shown, along with a troop movie on some of their activities this past year.

There are other awards to be presented, but if they were to be announced at this time, the suspense would be eliminated, and we just couldn't have that yet.

Hiking and camping plans for the future will be outlined as well as many other adventures in the planning stage.

This is one Parents' Nite and Court of Honor you just have to see—All interested persons are invited to spend this evening with Mokena's Boy Scout Troop 40.

First Endorsement Of Lincoln For Presidency

By John W. Allen

Southern Illinois University

It now would be difficult to fix, with reasonable accuracy, the time when Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday is Feb. 12, first began to cherish a hope that he might become the president of the United States. It is not so difficult, however, to establish the date on which an organized political group first endorsed him as a candidate for the office. This endorsement was made at Fairfield in southern Illinois on March 3, 1860, when the Wayne County Republican Committee adopted a resolution expressing their unanimous approval of his candidacy.

It was appropriate that this first formal endorsement should be made at a place not far distant from the point where Lincoln had crossed the Wabash river from Vincennes, Indiana, into Illinois in 1830.

Lincoln's entry into the state was certainly not an auspicious one. He came with nothing in particular to distinguish him from hundreds of other men coming to settle here. He came clad in homespun, wearing high-top leather boots and trudging along beside one of the ox wagons that carried the Lincoln family and its small stock of personal effects toward a new home. Tradition relates that Lincoln carried a pocket stock of needles, thread and pins for sale to housewives along the roadway.

Perhaps it is too much to say that there was nothing distinctive about him. It may be that his tall, gaunt frame, added to the calm, confident and competent manner evidenced in his behavior, were enough to cause observers to cast a second glance. Except as these may have set him apart, he was simply another immigrant coming into Illinois.

When the endorsement of the Wayne County Republican committee was given, Lincoln had been in Illinois 29 years. His experiences had been varied. He had been a farm hand and mill splitter, helping his father open and fence a farm. He also had been a flatboatman, a soldier, an inventor, a merchant, a postmaster, an attorney, a state legislator, a congressman, and long an active politician. He had contended with Stephen A. Douglas for a seat in the U. S. Senate and lost. He had appeared as an attorney in many courts over the state, several of these being in Southern Illinois. He had come to be regarded highly in legal circles. He had become a national figure—one whose opinions and utterances were awaited and carefully noted. Though no organized political group had recorded its approval there were many indications that he was being considered, seriously and widely, as the Republican candidate. It almost might have been termed a "political ground swell."

It was in this situation that the Republicans of Wayne county met in the spring of 1860, and on March 3 adopted the following: "Resolved—that the Hon. Abe Lincoln is the unanimous choice of the Republicans of Wayne county for the presidential nomination of the national convention at Chicago. Signed—Wayne County Republican Convention

C. Sibley, Chairman
Wm. H. Robinson, Secretary"

No effort to evaluate the effects of the action taken is being made. It is only noted

On Friday, Oct. 6, 1939, a program was held in Fairfield and a marker was dedicated to commemorate the first recorded action of the early county group. This program began with a parade of floats, hands, and horse-men, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

After luncheon the public ceremony of dedication was enacted. Dr. Cameron Harmon offered the invocation and Mayor Fred Bruce gave the address of welcome. After the Fairfield high school chorus had sung "Illinois," distinguished guests present were presented and the formal dedication was enacted. The address of the day was given by George D. Aiken, then governor of the state of Vermont.

Those who pause in their journey through Fairfield often stop to observe the marker erected there, and to consider the early tribute paid by the Wayne county Republican Convention to one of the world's most noted men.

STRONGARM AND ROB NEW LENOX WOMAN

Mrs. James Embling, of 221 East Joliet road, New Lenox was robbed under rather strange circumstances Friday afternoon, by a man and woman who forced entry into her home while she was present.

At about 4 p. m., Mrs. Embling told county police, she drove her car into the driveway, when another machine pulled in close behind her. She said a man came out of the car and approached her, carrying a brown bag. To his question, "do you want to buy some cosmetics?" she replied "no," and started for the house, assuming the man would re-enter his car. He did not, however, but followed her to the house, forcing her into it.

Mrs. Embling said she threw two cups which were standing on the kitchen table at the man, and a third one at a woman companion of the man who entered the home with him at the time.

The man struck Mrs. Embling on the head with what she believed to be a screwdriver, and began taking the phone apart, while the woman ransacked her purse. Mrs. Embling was forced to endorse a check on the American Can Co. for $55, and $12 was taken from her purse. Also a metal credit tag from Rudy's market on East Cass st., Joliet.

Mrs. Embling told police that after signing the check with a ball point pen the woman took the pen from her and stuck it in a plate of butter. At this point the two burglars walked out and drove away. Later, deputies learned that they cashed the $55 check at Rudy's market.

Mrs. Embling and her husband reported the incident to Jailer Paul Lukanich at the county jail at 5:20 p. m.

Mrs. Embling gave this description of the thieves. The woman: about five feet seven inches tall medium build, with dark hair and complexion. She was wearing a dark brown scarf and a powder blue coat, and had a mole on the lower right lip and cheek bone. The man, according to Mrs. Embling, was about 5 feet six inches tall, of medium build, with brown hair, and he had a ruddy complexion. Mrs. Embling guessed their ages at between 30 and 35.

The new place of business has 20 Laundromat units, three large dryers, and two large wash-ettes, and two large extractors.

Find Complaints Against Foster Parents Unfounded

A licensed home-placing agency in Joliet, licensed by the state for the placement of children, has received numerous accusations from a Mokena neighbor reporting the Nick Grybash family of 190 Wolf road as being unqualified foster parents.

Although the Grybashes have been licensed by the State of Illinois for quite a few years and have thus far fulfilled all the requirements requested of them, the complaints were received and checked by a caseworker of the above mentioned agency. The caseworkers have made many unexpected calls and spent an entire afternoon recently at the Grybash home, investigating each complaint. Therefore no other conclusion could be agreed upon except that the Grybashes are victims of a person or persons using malicious gossip to create scandal for reasons unknown.

PLAN GROUND OBSERVATION FOR FRANKFORT

The U. S. government wants to establish a ground observation post in Frankfort, Sgt. K. H. Williams, who is with the government, was in Frankfort recently and talked with Mayor George Sangmeister and others. He said it is very urgent, in fact a "must" that a post be established there.

In view of this, Mayor Sangmeister is calling a meeting under the direction of Sgt. Williams Wednesday evening Feb. 16, at 7:30 in the village hall in Frankfort.

It is urged that a large number of people from Frankfort and Frankfort township be in attendance.

The government has selected Frankfort for this ground observation post because of its strategic geographical location. It is pointed out that if a large group of people join this corps it will reduce the number of hours each will have to serve. A few years ago the government tried to establish a post in Frankfort, but did not succeed. This time, according to Sgt. Williams, it is important that the project go through.

At about 4 p. m., Mrs. Embling told county police, she drove her car into the driveway, when another machine pulled in close behind her. She said a man came out of the car and approached her, carrying a brown bag. To his question, "do you want to buy some cosmetics?" she replied "no," and started for the house, assuming the man would re-enter his car. He did not, however, but followed her to the house, forcing her into it.

Mrs. Embling said she threw two cups which were standing on the kitchen table at the man, and a third one at a woman companion of the man who entered the home with him at the time.

Mokena School News

First grade is very happy to be taking home our primers, "Fun With Dick and Jane." This means we are finished with them. We made a train for art work. One child made an engine and coal tender. Each child made a passenger car.

Thursday the second grade at Mokena school made clocks out of paper. Everyone made the face of their clock out of peach-colored construction paper, and hands that move all around the clock out of black construction paper. The numbers were put on with black crayola.

All forty-one clocks have been set at a different time, and are hanging in the classroom. Before long the second graders will be expert "time-tellers."

The 3 and 4 grades are studying about milk, why you should drink it, how to preserve it and the many products derived from milk.

The fourth and fifth graders of Mrs. Lehmann's room received spelling awards. The awards were erasers which Mrs. Lehmann gave if all pupils got all words right or didn't miss over two words.

In the fourth grade Todd Bennett and Frankie Pretzel made a map out of salt, flour, food coloring and water. One was a map of South America and the other was of the United States.

The seventh grade is thinking of beaches, resorts, and playgrounds these days in their art classes. Their project is making travel posters and the room will soon be covered with tempting pictures of all vacation spots of the world.

Each pupil of the eighth grade history class drew the name of a product; then they wrote to different manufacturers and producers for information on their product. They are also reading biographies and autobiographies on famous people since 1900.

Carole Gilmore, an eighth grader was high salesman in the Curtis magazine drive. A wrist watch will be her prize. Carol Fassett of the seventh grade was second high salesman and will receive a camera. Sharon Cappel was in third place. These three girls will all receive "Oscars" for having sold $75 worth or more.

English IV Classes Complete Tour Of World Literature

With the end of the first semester of work in senior English, Lincoln-Way seniors have tucked away intimate knowledge of the world's peoples, a knowledge taken at first hand through the writings of the people themselves. At the close of World War II the theory of greater world understanding began to spread unquestioned throughout this country. Men in overseas service returned to tell of countless difficulties encountered through the ignorance they showed of these "foreigners," among whom they were suddenly tossed. The study of world literature in high schools throughout the land was instituted as one weapon in combating this ignorance.

Today many young people, like those at Lincoln-Way, are experiencing the humor and the tears in the history of these people and their thinking. It is felt that this experience will give them valuable new ideas about and a truer understanding of their fellow man.

L-W Future Farmer Participates In Yorkshire Show

Garrett White is a freshman at Lincoln-Way high school and an active member in the Future Farmers of America. Garrett and his dad are partners in the pure bred Yorkshire hog business. That their hogs are of top quality was proved this past week.

Garrett has been planning for some time to attend and participate in the annual state Yorkshire show and sale. The past week, this dream was realized. He and his buddy, Loren Schlessler, made the trip to the show.

Garrett loaded his hogs at home and left about 12:30 Friday, arriving at Princeton about 3:30. Loren Schleeter, and Garrett were accompanied by Garrett's father. After unloading and bedding down the pigs, the group checked in at the hotel. It was cold but the sale barn was heated.

The State show began at 10:00 a.m. Saturday morning. Because the judges did not want to show favors, all of the hogs in a class were driven into the ring and only three men were permitted in the ring to herd them.

Garrett placed one gilt in the blue ribbon class of ten and one in the white class. Loren placed in the red ribbon Jr. class and white ribbon sr. class. Both of Garrett's pigs were in the senior class and the senior class was judged first.

The State sale began at 1 p.m. Garrett's blue ribbon pig sold for a nice sum of $165 and his third place hog sold for $160. The sale was finished and the group left for home at 5 p.m., arriving at Manhattan about 6:15 p.m.

Midlothian Lions Club To Give Big Musical Concert

Carl Kagebein's Sport-Hobby shop has been designated as official ticket headquarters for the up-coming huge musical extravaganza being sponsored by the Midlothian Lions club. This was announced yesterday by Dr. Earl Hedeen, chairman of the event.

This huge spectacle, the first of its kind ever put on in Midlothian, will take place in the Bremen high school gymnasium Feb. 25, a Friday night. The Barber Shop Musicale, as it is called, will feature several national champion barber shop quartets, who will put on a 2 hour concert, complete with costumes, comedy, and professional harmony. It is something new and sensational in the entertainment field. People and music critics who have attended these barber shop concerts, come away addicts, enthusiastic over this new type of entertainment. In fact, it is reported that it leaves your spine tingling.

Local Midlothian Lion members are busy setting up the arrangements including lavish arrangements for handling seating, parking, and other important details. Prospects for a full house that evening are in the offing. It appears, from all indications, that you had better get your tickets early.

Expect Start On First Stretch Of
Cal-Sag Channel

(CNS)—Major problems of local participation to clear the way for the beginning of construction of the Calumet-Sag channel were reported last week by Hjalmar W. Johnson, chairman of the Inland Waterways Coordinating committee and vice-president of the Inland Steel company.

"With local cooperation assured," Johnson said, "it is expected that federal funds will be made available in 1955 to start work on the first five mile stretch at the west end of the channel."

Widening the Cal-Sag channel to eliminate the bottleneck in the Great Lakes-to-Gulf waterways system was approved by Congress in 1946. But allocation of federal funds for construction work is contingent upon local participation.

Local agencies are required to furnish free of cost all lands, easements, rights-of-way, spoil disposal areas and alteration of utilities necessary to permit the beginning of channel construction work.

Final steps toward the realization of those objectives, Johnson said, were accomplished when the Cook County Board agreed on December 23, to close and remove the 104th avenue bridge over the Cal-Sag, and when the Chicago Sanitary district on December 30 granted easements through its lands from Sag junction near Lemont to 96th avenue.

The two actions followed earlier agreements with the Cook county forest preserve district, Lemont township and the B. M. and O. railroad.

Construction of the five mile section on the far west end of the channel would take about two years and would cover nearly a third of the 16-mile Cal-Sag project. It includes the narrowest segment of the channel where operating conditions are particularly difficult, Johnson said.

The coordinating committee is composed of 20 organizations including the city of Blue Island, Calumet Region congress, Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, Chicago Regional Port district, Cook county board, South Chicago chamber of commerce, South Chicago Trades and Labor assembly and several Indiana groups.

Anthony Ollis, president of the Sanitary District board, has suggested the formation of a single metropolitan area governmental service authority to solve problems of water supply, sanitation and flood control.

Ollis' suggestion also included development of port facilities and navigational features of the Cal-

Sag project. An early start on the five mile section would be a first step toward improving sanitary and flood control facilities and navigation, Johnson said.

The Boy Scout's magazine, "Boys' Life" now has over a million circulation each month.

There are 1,160,000 Cub Scouts in 32,000 Cub Packs throughout the United States.

Last September Boy Scouts distributed a million fire prevention posters.

Name Asst. Branch Managers For National Tea Co.

Changes in the top management of the Chicago branch of National Tea Co. have resulted in the naming of assistant branch managers in charge of operations for the company's north side, south side, and suburban territories. Designated as assistants to W. F. Karl, branch manager, are John E. Laughlin, Frank E. Linquist, and Richard J. Weber.

Each assistant branch manager has established new headquarters offices and, in addition to sales, will direct the activities of a meat merchandiser, a produce merchandiser, and a personnel counselor.

Promotion of William J. Wienke to manager of the real estate department for the Chicago branch of National Tea Co. has been announced by W. F. Karl, branch manager. Prior to his promotion, Wienke was an assistant real estate manager, under the direction of William T. Morgan, Jr., assistant secretary and general real estate manager, who will now devote his attention to real estate matters in all of the company's eight branches.

Each of the company's eight branches has its resident real estate manager, with Morgan heading up real estate operations for the entire company.

Biggest advantage to a wind-break around your farmstead is the protection it will give you in working outside in cold, blustery weather.

ALLIS-CHALMERS Forage Harvester

Your pasture can support 50 percent more cows when you chop the forage and bring it to the animals. That's the report we get from satisfied owners of Allis-Chalmers Forage Harvesters who have tried this system. A few minutes' work each day supplies enough for the entire herd. More nutrition can be used for milk and meat. Come in now for the full story on "Bringing Pasture to the Cows."

MAUE SCHOOL NEWS

First graders have completed their first three readers and have now begun reading in their new primers.

Carylon Cardwell returned to first grade Monday after a week's absence.

Terry Donovan celebrated his eighth birthday with his second grade classmates last Wednesday.

Lynn Cardemon is back again after a long seige of the flu.

Second and third graders are enjoying the new stories in their second readers.

Several children have had perfect attendance in grades 1-4 during the first semester. In grade 2, Janice Knieriem and Billy Blank; grade 3 John Stellwagen; grade 4 Pamela Cripps and James Semetis.

Friday we saw an excellent film in our social studies class entitled "Washington — Shrine of American Patriotism."

We also saw two very interesting films on Switzerland, after spending some time trying to darken our upper grade room sufficiently. It was certainly well worth our extra efforts.

Mrs. Charles Henning and Mrs. Frank Blank were pleasantly surprised when board members of the Maue PTA held a party in their honor during the social hour which followed the business of the regular monthly meeting held in the Henning home Wednesday evening. Mrs. Henning was presented with a stork gift from the group and Mrs. Blank received lovely gifts in honor of her birthday. The delicious kind of lunch that is usually concluded with an exchange of recipes, was served.

At a meeting Friday evening, the Maue school board of directors decided that special dark shades, to be used during the showing of movies, should be purchased.

Guests at a showing of movies in the Henry Felsch home Sunday evening were: his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Felsch, her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mitchell of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pelouquin, Nancy, Carol and Linda and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Simrell. The movies, which were shown by Mr. Mitchell, included films taken at the New Year's Eve party held in the Henry Felsch home at which all guests had been present.

Some of Miss Billie Donovan's school chums are saying, "For a taste treat, Mrs. Donovan's chocolate cake can't be beat." Similar remarks are being circulated about Mrs. Owen Maue's Hollywood salad.

Mr. and Mrs. Harwood Stellwagen and family visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stellwagen, in Mokena Thursday evening in observance of the latter's 39th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pelouquin entertained his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pelouquin, Skip and Janice of Oaklawn, at a fish fry dinner Friday evening. Saturday evening guests of the Pelouquins were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kohl, Donny and Mary Lou.

Exemptions For Dependents Other Than Children

BY ERNEST J. SAUBER
District Director of Internal Revenue, Chicago District
The 1954 Internal Revenue Code, our new tax law, has liberalized the rules for claiming dependents and many taxpayers will now be able to claim more dependents on their 1954 income tax returns.

In this article I would like to focus attention on the change in the relationship test and the new provision referred to as the multiple support rule.

Under the old law, a dependent had to be closely related to you. The dependent had to bear one of the eight specific relationships, otherwise no dependency credit was allowed.

Under the new law, you may claim as a dependent—worth a $600 exemption—any person who is a member of your household, who receives chief or full support from you, even though not related to you. Relationship is no longer required. But the person must have your home as his principal residence and must be a member of your household for the entire taxable year.

A foster child, a child awaiting adoption, a cousin, or even an old friend may be a dependent under this provision.

However, there are two important points to bear in mind. First—if such a dependent has gross income of $600 or more, he no longer qualifies as your dependent for income tax listing. Second—he cannot qualify as a dependent if he established a separate residence and only make periodic or occasional visits to your home.

Question . . . In the case of a man whose foster son is away at school during the year, would this fact disqualify him as a dependent?

Answer . . . Being away at school during the year would be considered temporary absence. The same would be true if the dependent were on vacation or away from your home for a part of the year because of illness. If your home is still his principal residence, you may still claim the dependency credit.

Question . . . What is the multiple support rule?

Answer . . . This rule deals with a common situation where a group of taxpayers jointly support a close relative but no one of them furnishes chief support. Under the new law, if the group furnishes the dependent chief support, any one of the group whose contribution is at least 10% of the support may claim the dependent provided:

1. No one of the group furnishes chief support,
2. The others sign a waiver of any right to claim the dependent in the same year, and

3. The dependent meets the other dependency requirements.

Question . . . May the members of the group take turns in claiming the dependent?

Answer . . . Yes, the members of the group may take turns in claiming such a dependent. Those not claiming the dependent must sign a waiver or a statement to the effect that they will not claim the dependency credit on their current year's return. This is the multiple support agreement, and should be attached to the income tax return of the person claiming the dependent.

The Closest Bond

Lesson for February 13, 1955

"WHAT do you mean by conversion?" said a business mantaopreacher. "You are always talking about it. I know what conversion means in my business—I had to convert a plant from war time to peace time production. But what's conversion in religion?"

If the minister were smart, he would take up the business man's own illustration. Conversion in the personal life is just what it is in a factory, a change of the personal life, a re-tooling, turning out something different from what used to be turned out. Before conversion a man may be, so to speak, in a state of war with himself, with his fellow men and even with God. After conversion he has peace of conscience, he lives at peace within and without.

Dr. Foreman

Born Again
The word "conversion" is used in different Christian circles to mean somewhat different things, or to be more exact, the word as some use it covers a long period of time, while with others it refers to one instant only. That is, "conversion" as Christians use the word can mean a long, indeed life-long process of change, or it can mean the very start of that long process. Now one of the favorite Bible expressions to describe the beginning of the new life is "turn." It is as simple as that. Anybody who ever drove a car or sailed a boat, rode a mule or even walked, knows what turning is. Children know it. You are headed in one direction and then you head in another. That's what conversion is. You are headed down the devil's road and then you turn off on to God's road—and they do not end at the same destination! But of course there is something that happens on the inside that makes the traveler want to turn; and this happening-on-the-inside is what we call the New Birth. God brings the seed of the new life but we have to take over from there. The New Birth is God's part, conversion—turning—is our part, of the new life in Christ.

Sign of Life
No farmer can create seeds, no scientific agronomist can put life into seed that is dead. But the farmer has to put the seed into the ground, he has to keep the weeds out, he has to do whatever that particular crop needs to nurse it along till harvest time. How does he know that the seed is alive? Only one way to tell, the farmer would say. Does it come up? Does it grow? So in the Christian life, no one can look directly into a human heart and say, "Here is new life." But a truly converted, live Christian can be known by the signs of life. The jailer at Philippi described in Acts asked "What must I do to be saved?" and was told, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ." No one could see him believing. No camera has yet been invented that will photograph the action of the human spirit or the Divine Spirit. But between midnight and morning there in the jail house that jailer gave good evidence that he had really believed, and that the Holy Spirit had really begun to change the direction of his life. Before midnight he had been a hard cruel man. Now we see him trying to undo the harm he has done. He unselfishly shares what he has, he is baptized as a sign of his new life, he is a happy man.

Everything New
One of the points most often brought up by critics of Christianity from the outside is that Christians seem not to be different from any one else, or not different enough to matter. There is a good deal of truth behind this. All churches have their share—some congregations seem to have more than their share—of members who have never been converted. Their lives are in the old worn-out pattern of the world, there is nothing new and vital and different about them. Let us come down to brass tacks. What is there that ought to be and will be new in a Christian's life? Certainly the center of his life will be different. What Paul calls the "old man" asks invariably about anything he does, "What's in it for me? How will this help me to get ahead of other people?" But the "new man in Christ" learns to ask, "Is this what Christ would do?" The learning sometimes comes hard, but it brings the deepest happiness known to man.

BABSON SAYS—

Babson Discusses Our Dollar

Three specialists, recently back from Europe, discussed the effect of our dollar-aid program abroad. Since this was a small closed meeting, I shall not identify these men. What they said was that the millions of dollars spent in Europe have not, as had been hoped, won very many of our European neighbors to our way of thinking.

Why Aid Europeans?

The thinking behind our multi-billion-dollar aid program was that we could raise the living standards of Europeans by increasing their productivity. This means by showing them how to develop mass markets for their manufactures. We hoped to win converts with refrigerators, shoes, radios, and many other items.

What we seem to have overlooked is the fundamental European desire for security. The American economy is dynamic. Competitiveness is inbred; risk-taking and venture capital are common denominators of our success. The European economy, on the other hand, is a static, protected economy. Production is stabilized; prices are controlled; the worker is protected; competition is discouraged; the common denominator is security. People are interested in working harder for security, but not in selling more units at less profit per unit.

A Cynic's Reaction

One cynic in the group said, "All right, then why do we try to force the American ways on Europe? These Europeans are happy; why should we unload a dose of American ulcers on them?" A comment from another went something like this, "Australia's productive capacity has been sharply increased since World War II. We were not concerned about them before the war; why should we be concerned now?" A reputable economist in the group raised another issue: "Europe knew it had a threat from the East, an enemy in Communist Russia. Might not Europeans now believe that they have two enemies seeking to infiltrate or absorb them—Russia and America?"

My own belief is that we must fight poor economics with good economics. We cannot hope to sell democracy to people who are economically enslaved by their institutions. If we do not act constructively, we shall lose Europe to Communism by default.

Our Spiritual Value Below Par

I have a pet notion which I know will sock some of you, but think about it a while. Our dollar bill is a good measure of our spiritual values! A paper dollar isn't worth anything of itself; but, as a medium of exchange, it is a measure of values. It reflects such spiritual values as honesty, wisdom, courage, and integrity. From 1939 to 1953, the value of our dollar declined from 100 cents to about 55 cents. Does this decline in dollar value mirror our decline in character?

Dollar depreciation is largely a result of war. But why? Instead of paying as we went, we were taught to borrow against the future. This could be perfectly O.K., because we owed nobody but ourselves. But it gave us the illusion of prosperity. It sidestepped self-sacrifice while increasing our national debt five-fold during these war years.

Importance of Sacrifice

We have given young Americans the notion that they can charge their present happiness against some future date of accounting. We have developed the materialistic belief that money will buy everything, including the way Europeans think! The present value of the dollar reflects this belief. Perhaps it will take defeat in Europe to bring us to the realization that freedom cannot be bought with dollars without sacrifice. We should have learned that lesson 175 years ago.

The practical cure for Communism is not material, it is spiritual. It is not the amount of dollars you pour into a situation; it is the ideals. It is not security and pensions and comfort; it is deals and ethics and character. It is those principles that make our dollar worth something. Right now our dollar is below par; I have faith, however, that as more Americans come to realize this great truth, we will put our own house in order. Then maybe what we have to say will make more sense to Europeans. We must practice and teach sacrifice.

Chrysler Sales Up 78% Over Year Ago

Sales of 1955 Chrysler and Imperials for the second 10 days of January, 1955, increased more than 78 per cent over the same period a year ago, reports E. M. Braden, general sales manager, Chrysler division, Chrysler corporation.

Dealers delivered 4,755 of the new cars to owners during the second 10 days of January, 1955, compared to deliveries of 2,670 cars for the same period in 1954—an increase of 78.1 per cent, Braden said. Deliveries for the first 20 days of 1955 totaled 8,719 cars, more than 87 per cent above the 5,218 delivered in the same period in 1954.

"A total of 87 new features, plus the flashing new Forward Look styling of Chrysler and Imperial in 1955 are bringing us the greatest public acceptance in Chrysler's 31-year history," Braden says.

BIG BILL

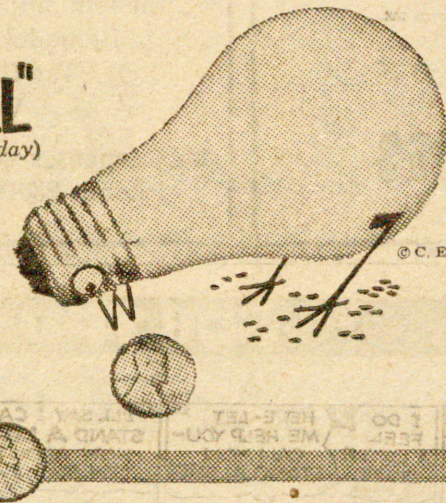

THE COST-OF-LIVING BIRD
(He's twice as big as he was 25 years ago)

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY'S

"LITTLE BILL"

(He still costs you pennies a day)

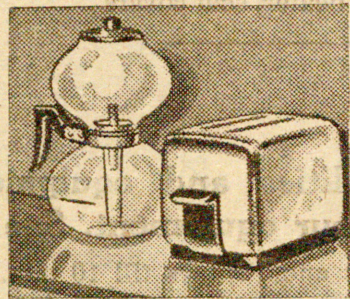

How Public Service Company keeps your electric bill down

(while everything else goes up)

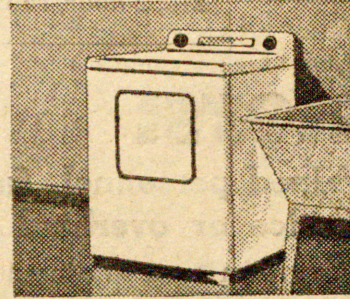

Cost of living has doubled, but electricity, your taken-for-granted lifeline to better living, actually costs you less per kilowatt-hour than it did 25 years ago.

One of the ways Public Service Company keeps your electric bill down is by planning tomorrow's power supply. For instance, we have a miniature electric system with which our engineers can calculate a new neighborhood's power needs 5, 8, even 10 years ahead. That way, we know what kind of lines to use and where to locate them to bring you better service for less.

So today, while you're using far more electricity than 25 years ago, you're getting almost twice as much of it for your money.

Less than 1¢ it takes for electricity to make 8 cups of coffee and 8 pieces of toast for your breakfast.

For less than 3¢ your whole week's wash is done in your work-saving automatic electric washer. Saves time, too.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

Healing through spiritual means as practiced by Christ Jesus will be a topic dealt with at Christian Science services Sunday, Feb. 13.

The Lesson-Sermon is entitled "Soul," a word which, when capitalized, is used in Christian Science as one of the synonyms for God. The Bible selections include: "And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them (Matthew 15:30).

Among the selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will be the following (210:11-16): "Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

The blood lines of the boars you buy should give them the ability to produce rapid and efficient gains, and the brood sows should farrow, wean and raise large numbers of pigs to market weight.

More than 10,000 Scouts and Leaders enjoyed high adventure camping at the 127,000 acre Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimarron, New Mexico last year.

1,500 members of the Boys Scouts of America will attend the 8th World Scout Jamboree next August 18-28 at Niagara - on - the Lake, Ont., Canada.

Proper feed and exercise now will protect your bred ewes against ketosis or pregnancy disease this spring, says a University of Illinois veterinarian.

To help prevent ketosis, ewes should have a quarter-pound of grain a day in addition to legume hay at least two months before lambing.

Repanel Old Door

DON'T discard a door just because the wood is dented and battered beyond repair! It can be salvaged without great trouble or expense.

Place the door on saw horses and remove the hardware. If it is a panel door, cut some vents in the top, bottom and center cross-pieces. Now lay across the door a panel of Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood and fasten it with temporary brads so that it is flush with one side and end.

Then saw off the excess at the side of the door, so that the Tempered Presdwood is even with the door edge all around. Lightly bevel the exposed edges of the hardboard with a file or sandblock.

Next, turn the panel over and apply waterproof adhesive. Then fit it to the door and apply several brads to hold it firmly while it sets. The same procedure is followed with the other side. Prime and paint the door to match or contrast with the room's decor. Refit the hardware and the door jamb and rehange the door.

You won't recognize it! Masonite hardboard is widely used by manufacturers of flush panel doors because of the product's stability, unusual paint-holding qualities and durability.

St. Francis Hospital To Enter Its 50th Year Of Service

The busiest year in its history was experienced by St. Francis hospital in Blue Island in 1954. This announcement was made by Sister M. Placida, administrator, concurrently with the release of an interesting booklet comparing last year's achievements with those of previous years. Every department of the hospital established new records of activity.

On March 25, the Sisters of St. Mary of St. Francis hospital will begin their 50th year of service to Blue Island and the area.

As a result of constant efforts to improve the administrative and operational procedures as well as physical plant and equipment, the hospital last year received "Full Accreditation" by the joint commission of Accreditation of Hospitals and was approved for membership by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education.

The hospital's administrative processes were enhanced in 1954 by the formation of a lay committee of prominent business, professional and civic men and women serving in an advisory capacity. Almost simultaneously, the practical nurses and nurse-aides were organized to complement the medical, dental and nursing staffs. In-training of nurse-aides was inaugurated. The Ladies Auxiliary enjoyed another record-breaking year of service to the hospital in many capacities.

Alterations affecting the entire second floor of the south wing were undertaken and completed last year. Health department requirements necessitated renovation and expansion of kitchen and dining room facilities. The doctors' and employee dining halls and cafeteria are now in operation and the kitchen and contingent work are nearing completion.

Commenting on the all-time high level of activity, Sister Placida pointed out that, without the additions of plant and equipment which have been made in the past five years, service of the hospital would be limited to the 1949 level. This point is painfully illustrated in the children's department, which did not share in the added facilities provided by the north wing.

"In the pediatrics division," Sister Placida stated, "we are in pretty much the same condition as so many school districts throughout the country." The post-war child population has grown so rapidly as to outstrip hospital, school and other pediatric facilities. In 1954, there were 125 more births in St. Francis hospital than in the preceding year and 252 more than in 1949. Obviously, a certain percentage of this increase will require hospital care in the next few years in addition to the large numbers being treated. A new and larger pediatric division will entail erection of a fifth floor to the north wing of the hospital.

A fund to meet this need was started Nov. 17 with the proceeds of a successful turkey dinner served by the Sisters. This fund has since been augmented by the gifts of benefactors and now approximates $18,000. Cost of construction of the new floor is estimated at $250,000.

Drama Society Presents Live Show At Oak Forest

Crimson Masque, drama society of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., presented a three act play entitled "Love Rides the Rails or Will The Mail Train Run Tonight" last Saturday afternoon, in the Oak Forest Institution auditorium.

The twenty-two players, under the direction of Howard Gongwer, drama coach of the college, made a special trip from Monmouth to entertain the patients at Oak Forest.

The audience included bed-patients as well as convalescents. This is the first time that live drama has been presented on the Oak Forest stage.

Northern Ill. Gas Announces Big Expansion Program

Northern Illinois Gas company expects to spend an estimated $60,000,000 for necessary construction work during the next four years, it was announced by Marvin Chandler, president. Approximately $16,000,000 will be spent this year, which is an increase of nearly $2,000,000 over 1954 expenditures.

Planning for this four year program was based on the continued development of the Herscher (Illinois) underground storage project by the Natural Gas Storage Company of Illinois which now has a request pending before the Federal Power Commission to triple its daily withdrawal rate from the field.

Chandler said that he did not anticipate any necessity for the sale of additional securities to finance this year's program, but stated that about $25,000,000 of new financing probably will be required for construction during the three succeeding years (1956-58).

THE FIRST KNOWN USE OF COFFEE CENTURIES AGO WAS AS A FOOD, WINE AND MEDICINE. EVEN TODAY, AMONG THE WANDERING GALLA TRIBES OF AFRICA, THE PULVERIZED BEANS ARE MIXED WITH FATS AND USED AS A FOOD RATION.

COFFEE WAS FIRST ROASTED IN THE 15TH CENTURY BY COOKING A FEW BEANS AT A TIME IN CLAY OR STONE VESSELS, OVER OPEN FIRES.

BECAUSE OF SHRINKAGE DURING THE ROASTING PROCESS, IT TAKES 119-122 POUNDS OF GREEN BEANS TO PRODUCE 100 POUNDS OF ROASTED COFFEE.

Christmas Cookie Bin

HERE'S a Christmas cookie bin which keeps the various kinds on separate sliding trays, quickly accessible and unbroken from mass piling. Make it a foot wide, 13 inches deep and 14 to 16 inches high, depending on available space.

Sides should be dressed lumber, white pine or poplar. Slides for the trays may be cut with a dado saw, spacing the $\frac{1}{8}$ " slots about $2\frac{1}{2}$ " apart. To form the rest of the cookie bin, nail or screw Masonite $\frac{1}{4}$ " Tempered Presdwood to the top, bottom and back. The slides are made of the same smooth, long-wearing material, which does not retain odors and is easily kept clean.

At the front of each slide attach a piece of half-inch wood, on edge, with screws. Have each "lip" extend to the extreme on either side and fit snugly against the bottom of the slide immediately above. This provides a practically air-tight cover for each slide. Attach a pull to each. Attach a similar piece of wood to the opposite end of each slide to prevent cookies from spilling out.

To assure a first-rate joint where the top and back meet, place a length of wood one inch square inside and fasten the Tempered Presdwood to it.

More than 27,500 boys and men have enrolled in the Boy Scouts of America since 1910. In 1954 more than 900,000 Boy Scouts and Explorers camped in various sections of the country.

For higher profits in the egg business, make as much use of farm-grown grains as you can, and keep feed waste as low as possible.
